LUNATIC^K

A photo and video installation concerning the mind/body problem*
by Barbara Ess

Things are not always what they seem to be. There's the thing. There's perception and thought. But in The Expression of Emotion in Man and Animals published in 1871, Charles Darwin quotes Dr. J. Crichton-Browne's theory that "an empirical confirmation exists in insane people between the state of their hair and the state of their minds."
